

The pizzas are made with coffee filters and markers. Students fold the coffee filter to make equal parts and then mark the fold with a black marker. Each section had to be a different topping. Once the students were done we would ask questions about how much of the pizza had a certain topping on it. We then made it harder and asked about more than one topping.